[18-04-2024, 12:31:23] 5.1.2e Hello 5.1.2e Just an update... we have more or less finished the report on Monday, but I still didn't send it as I wanted to better explore two samples. Most samples worked really well, but two samples were quite poor (one particularly). This would generally not be that big of a problem, but they were also the only individuals indicating some possible low-level dog ancestry, and this (possibly important) result is inconclusive because of the low quality of the samples (the assignment may be wrong because of the genotyping error). As we repeated laboratory analysis for each sample 3 times, we've now pooled together results for all repeats for these two samples and are reanalyzing to see if we can get a more conclusive results. This is not standard for SNP data so we had to program some new tools, but we're finishing this now. I hope that this additional delay is not too big of a problem.

[18-04-2024, 13:41:38] 5.1.2e Looks like this is important for the overall quality so please do so. Any indication how much time this will take? An estimated date is welcome.

[18-04-2024, 15:43:47] 5.1.2e Tuesday next week (April 23).

[22-05-2024, 12:40:51] 5.1.2e There are more newsartikels but they are quite similar, this one is representative.

[22-05-2024, 13:14:40] 5.1.2e Thanks for sharing! Nice that this is getting picked up by the media. This one seems positive (at least judging from Google translation), I hope that all media reactions would be likewise.
